

Download British Destroyer Vs German Destroyer Narvik 1940 Duel

The opening months of World War II saw Britain's Royal Navy facing a resurgent German navy, the Kriegsmarine. Following the German invasion of Denmark and Norway in early April 1940, British and German destroyers would clash in a series of battles for control of the Norwegian coast. In April 1940, destroyers of the British Royal Navy and German Kriegsmarine would clash in the waters of northern Norway. The British Royal Navy was on a mine-laying mission; the Germans were transporting troops for an invasion of Norway. Following the German invasion of Denmark and Norway in early April 1940, British and German destroyers would clash in a series of battles for control of the Norwegian coast. The operational environment was especially challenging, with destroyer crews having to contend with variable weather, narrow coastal tracts and possibility of fog and ship breakdowns. Following the German invasion of Denmark and Norway in early April 1940, British and German destroyers would clash in a series of battles for control of the Norwegian coast. The operational environment was especially challenging, with destroyer crews having to contend with variable weather, narrow coastal tracts and possibility of fog and ship breakdowns., British Destroyer Vs German Destroyer Narvik 1940 Duel.

Other Files :