In the same vein of Kalisha Buckhanon's critically-acclaimed debut novel Upstate, again she shares an emotionally beautiful story about today's youth that magnifies the unforgettable power of hope and the human spirit. Buckhanon takes us to Chicago, 1992, and into the life of fifteen-year-old Shivana Montgomery, who believes all Black women ...Auto Suggestions are available once you type at least 3 letters. I would place this novel in the same field as The Coldest Winter Ever or Midnight by Sister Souljah. What Buckhanon does better in this story is show the vulnerability of a young Black man and his ability to love a young Black Woman with a similar troubled childhood/past as he. I felt as I was growing with Shivana. It crushed me when on the apex of their arrival to New York, BOOM, they passed. I dropped a couple of tears., Conception A Novel.
